

Steven F. Day
Colonel
United States Marine Corps (Ret.)

Steve Day joined the Marine Corps in 1974 and, following his initial training, was commissioned in June 1975. He attended law school at the University of Denver and graduated in 1978. Following additional military training at Quantico, Virginia and Newport, Rhode Island, Mr. Day was ordered to the 1st Force Service Support Group at Camp Pendleton, California for duty. During the next four years, Mr. Day served at various times as a defense counsel, trial counsel, review officer, and Military Police company commander.

In 1983, Mr. Day was assigned to the 3rd Force Service Support Group in Okinawa, Japan where he served as a trial counsel and Deputy Staff Judge Advocate. In 1984, he was transferred to the 4th Marine Aircraft Wing in New Orleans as the Deputy Staff Judge Advocate. Mr. Day was promoted to the grade of major in June 1986 and was sent as a student to the College of Naval Command and Staff, Naval War College, in Newport, Rhode Island. From there, Mr. Day was assigned to Headquarters Marine Corps where he served from 1987 to 1990 as the Officer Policy Officer within the Department of Manpower and Reserve Affairs.

In 1990, Mr. Day returned to the Naval War College as an instructor within the Oceans Law and Policy Department of the Center for Naval Warfare Studies. In 1992, he was promoted to the grade of lieutenant colonel and was transferred for duty as the Assistant Staff Judge Advocate of the United States Southern Command in Quarry Heights, Panama. Following his three-year tour in Panama, Mr. Day was transferred in 1995 to the 2nd Force Service Support Group, Camp Lejeune, NC for duty as the Staff Judge Advocate. In 1997, Mr. Day was selected for promotion to the grade of colonel and was transferred to Camp Pendleton, CA for duty as the Circuit Military Judge of the Sierra Judicial Circuit. In June 1999, Mr. Day was transferred to MCAS Cherry Point for duty as the Staff Judge Advocate of the 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing, with additional duty as the Director of the MCAS Cherry Point Joint Law Center. In 2002, Mr. Day was assigned duties as a military judge with the Piedmont Judicial Circuit at Camp Lejeune. He deployed to Iraq in February 2004 as part of OPERATION IRAQI FREEDOM for duty as the Deputy Staff Judge Advocate of the Multinational Forces. Upon his return from this deployment, Mr. Day assumed duties as the Circuit Military Judge of the Piedmont Judicial Circuit. In February 2006, Mr. Day became the Chief Judge of the Navy – Marine Corps Trial Judiciary and retired from that position in 2008 with over thirty years of active service. Mr. Day began working with the Office of Immigration Litigation, Department of Justice, in August of 2008 as an appellate attorney. On March 7, 2011, Mr. Day was selected to serve as an Immigration Judge in Boston, MA..

Mr. Day and his wife, Jean, have two children; Kate, a graduate of the University of North Carolina who works in Chantilly, Virginia with Femme Comp Incorporated, a system engineering and technical assistance company, and Greg, a graduate of Brandeis University who is working as a research chemist with Exxon Corporation in Houston, Texas.